Glendale City Seventh-day Adventist Church

October 23, 2010

“Revealing Christ, affirming all.”

Scripture Reflection

Hebrews 11:29-34; 12:1-2

By faith the people passed through the Red Sea as on dry land; but when the Egyptians tried to do so, they were drowned.

By faith the walls of Jericho fell, after the people had marched around them for seven days.

By faith the prostitute Rahab, because she welcomed the spies, was not killed with those who were disobedient.

And what more shall I say? I do not have time to tell about Gideon, Barak, Samson, Jephthah, David, Samuel and the prophets, who through faith conquered kingdoms, administered justice, and gained what was promised; who shut the mouths of lions, quenched the fury of the flames, and escaped the edge of the sword; whose weakness was turned to strength; and who became powerful in battle and routed foreign armies.

Therefore, since we are surrounded by such a great cloud of witnesses, let us throw off everything that hinders and the sin that so easily entangles, and let us run with perseverance the race marked out for us.

Let us fix our eyes on Jesus, the author and perfecter of our faith, who for the joy set before him endured the cross, scorning its shame, and sat down at the right hand of the throne of God.

Glendale City Health Education

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Although rare, men can also develop breast cancer. The lifetime risk is about 1 in 1,000. The condition can develop at any age, but most cases of male breast cancer are detected between the ages of 60 and 70. At one time it was thought that the prognosis for men diagnosed with breast cancer was worse than that for women, but recent research has not found this to be true. Men and women with the same stage of breast cancer have similar outlooks for survival. Since men have little breast tissue it is easier for them to feel small tumors than it is for women. However, because men have so little breast tissue, cancers do not need to grow very far to spread to nearby tissues or lymph nodes. Early detection is therefore also important for men. Report any changes in breast tissue to your health care provider: the presence of firm, non-painful masses; and changes in the skin such as puckering or dimpling, redness, scaling, or discharge. Be aware of personal risk factors and discuss them with your health care provider:

1. Aging – the average age of diagnosis of male breast cancer is 68 years.
2. Family history – about 1 out of 5 men with breast cancer have close male or female relatives with the disease.
3. Inherited gene mutations – a mutation in the BRCA2 gene accounts for about 1 in 10 breast cancers in men. With these mutations there is a strong family history of breast and/or ovarian cancer.
4. Radiation exposure – a man whose chest area has been treated with radiation (for example, to treat Hodgkin's lymphoma) has an increased risk.
5. Alcohol – heavy drinking increases the risk.
6. Liver disease – cirrhosis from chronic alcohol abuse, chronic viral hepatitis, or rare genetic conditions results in higher estrogen levels.
7. High estrogen levels – due to Klinefelter's syndrome, obesity, or liver disease (men normally produce small amounts of estrogen, but certain conditions result in too high levels. In addition to liver disease, high levels of estrogen associated with breast enlargement are Klinefelter's syndrome and obesity. There may be a slight increased risk associated with estrogen-related drugs sometimes used in hormonal therapy for men with prostate cancer. However, according to the American Cancer Society, this risk is small compared with the benefits of hormonal therapy in slowing the growth of prostate cancer.
